Boutique Manufacturer of Luxury Door, Cabinet & Window Hardware

For decades, Brassart has specialised in the design and manufacture of solid brass door hardware inspired by the elegance and proportion of the Georgian architectural era. Our Burlington range reflects this heritage, offering refined pieces that sit comfortably within both period properties and classically influenced contemporary interiors. Our products are ideally suited to private residences, boutique hotels, and high-end hospitality environments where timeless design, material integrity, and architectural coherence are essential.

Established in England in 1935, Brassart combines traditional British craftsmanship with modern manufacturing techniques to produce exceptional architectural hardware. Each piece is crafted from solid brass—selected for its strength, longevity, and natural patina and thoughtfully designed to echo the symmetry, balance, and understated sophistication characteristic of Georgian design.

The Burlington range of architectural ironmongery is a considered collection that draws inspiration from the restrained ornamentation and classical detailing of the Georgian period. Featuring elegant forms, clean lines, and subtle decorative references, the range includes pull handles, door knobs, and cabinet hardware, all available in a wide variety of bespoke finishes.

Each piece is made to order, combining time-honoured craftsmanship with precision engineering to create hardware that is both durable and architecturally sympathetic—perfect for heritage restorations as well as refined modern spaces.

Our aim is simple: to create contemporary solid brass door knobs made in the UK that combine enduring materials, precision engineering, and understated design.
