Handles*

Boutique Manufacturer of Luxury Door, Cabinet & Window Hardware

For decades, Brassart has specialised in the design and manufacture of contemporary solid brass architectural hardware for some of the most discerning residential and commercial projects around the world. Our products are perfectly suited for private residences, boutique hotels, luxury hospitality environments, and design-led architectural spaces where quality, material integrity, and refined design are paramount.

Established in England in 1935, Brassart combines traditional British craftsmanship with advanced manufacturing techniques to create exceptional architectural door pull handles. Each piece is crafted from solid brass, selected for its strength, longevity, and distinctive character, and designed to complement contemporary architecture and interior design.

This brochure provides an overview of our collection of contemporary door pull handles, where every design is precision-engineered and hand-finished to deliver exceptional quality, durability, and tactile performance. Designed, manufactured, finished, and assembled in the UK, our pull handles embody generations of specialist expertise and a commitment to producing architectural hardware of the highest standard.

Our aim is simple: to create contemporary solid brass door hardware made in the UK that combine enduring materials, precision engineering, and understated design.

A close-up photograph of a dark blue, paneled door. A brass handle with a decorative, elongated profile is mounted on a matching brass plate. The handle has a central grip section with a series of raised bands and decorative finials at both ends. The plate is rectangular with rounded ends and a small circular detail near the top. To the left of the door, a stone wall is partially covered by green ivy. A brown, textured doormat is placed on the stone steps leading to the door. The lighting is warm, suggesting late afternoon or early morning.

Constable Large

A large, vertical brass handle is mounted on a rustic wooden door. The handle has a polished, golden-brown finish and features decorative finials at both ends. The door is made of thick, weathered wood with visible grain and knots. In the background, a lush garden with green foliage and numerous light pink roses is visible, creating a soft, natural backdrop.
